

Finance and Employment

How to manage money to promote employment, rights and the environment

Sala Assunta, via degli Astalli 17, Rome
28th February, 10.30 - 13.00

The term “sustainability” has gained momentum in the public debate and more and more traditional financial providers are defining themselves as “sustainable” and “responsible” providers. Nevertheless, mainstreaming banks are still financing the nuclear weapon industries, industries involved in human and workers rights abuse, high fossil-fuel consuming sectors. But finance can be different!

Ethical finance is based on radical choices: supporting the real economy and those enterprises with positive effects on the environment and society, respecting the rights of workers and communities.

We will discuss together with:

- Keith Mestrich. President and CEO at Amalgamated Bank - sharing with us the experience of the most trusted financial institution for progressive people and organizations.
- Andrea Baranes. Vice-President at Banca Etica - presenting the results of the Third Report on Sustainable and Ethical Finance in Europe, with a focus on the remuneration policy in the financial sector

Round-table with:

- Anna Fasano, President at Banca Etica
- Roberto Gualtieri, Minister of Economy and Finance
- Maurizio Landini, General Secretary of CGIL

The participation is free but it is mandatory to register to the following link.
